

Elona:

Elona Dushku is Head of Microeconomic Research Unit at Bank of Albania, since 2011, where her main task is to conduct empirical research on various topics on central bank policies, especially on household behaviour, industrial organisation and monetary policy. In addition she was responsible for the coordination and management of the first Albanian Household Wealth Survey and explored various topics related to remittances, poverty, household sustainability and vulnerabilities. Elona has a BA and MA in Economics from Faculty of Economy, University of Tirana and holds a PhD in Banking and Finance from University of Tor Vergata Roma.