Securities Issues September 2016

November 11th, 2016

Banco de Portugal publishes today, in table A.25 of the Statistical Bulletin and in BPstat, data on shares and debt securities issues for August 2016.

In September, net securities issued (gross issues minus redemptions) by residents amounted to -0.6 billion euros (Chart 1). This outcome is a result of negative net issues in shares of -0.9 billion euros, the lowest value since July 2015. The negative net issues in shares was partially offset by the positive net issue in debt securities, which amounted to 0.3 billion euros.

Both financial and non-financial corporations contributed to the overall result with negative net emissions of -1.0 and -0.5 billion euros, respectively. The general government registered a positive net issue of 0.9 billion euros (Chart 2).

In September, the outstanding amount of securities issued by residents decreased to 430.0 billion euros (Chart 3), against the increase in the previous month. To the reduction contributed the negative net issues and the general government debt securities and non-financial corporations' shares devaluation.
