Public debt

November 2016

January 2nd, 2017

Banco de Portugal publishes today in table A.15 of the Statistical Bulletin and in BPstat, public debt statistics for November 2016.

In November 2016, public debt stood at 241.8 billion euro (Chart 1), a decrease of 1.3 billion euro when compared with the previous month (Chart 2). This decrease reflects a reduction in loans (1.9 billion euro), due to an amortization of the International Monetary Fund loans (2.1 billion euro), and net issuances of securities (0.5 billion euro), of which 1.5 billion euro due to the third issuance of floating rate bonds.

The decrease in deposits of central government (0.6 billion euro) was lower than the decrease of the public debt, resulting in a decrease of 0.7 billion euro of net debt of deposits of central government to 223.7 billion euro at the end of November 2016.
