Securities Issues November 2016

January 12th, 2017

Banco de Portugal publishes today, in table A.25 of the Statistical Bulletin and in BPstat, data on shares and debt securities issues for November 2016.

In November, net securities issued (gross issues minus redemptions) by residents amounted to -0.1 billion euros (Chart 1). This outcome is a result of net issues in debt securities of -0.3 billion euros, partially offset by net issues in shares of 0.1 billion euros.

While financial corporations and non-financial corporations contributed to the overall result with net issues of -0.2 and -0.4 billion euros, respectively, general government contributed with net issues of 0.5 billion euros (Chart 2).

In November, the outstanding amount of securities issued by residents decreased 4.3 billion euros, to 423.0 billion euros (Chart 3), maintaining the decreasing trend presented in the previous two months. To this reduction contributed the general government debt securities and non-financial corporations' shares devaluation.
